Introduction & Learning Objectives
Learning Objectives

✓ Apply self-direction philosophy and person-centeredness
✓ Describe the unique role of each stakeholder in South Carolina’s attendant and companion care programs
✓ Outline South Carolina’s screening, enrollment, and ongoing monitoring processes for attendant and companion care
What Is Self-Direction?

A service delivery philosophy:

- Participant assesses their own needs
- Participant determines how and by whom needs are met
- Participant monitors the quality of service received

Self-Directed Care = Participant-Directed Care = Consumer-Directed Care

For the South Carolina Department of Health and Human Services’ Division of Community Long Term Care (CLTC), self-direction is provided in a home or community setting and is available for:

1. Attendant Care - assist with Activities of Daily Living (ADL, such as bathing and dressing) and Instrumental Activities of Daily Living (IADL) such as shopping and using the phone.

2. Companion Care – provide short-term relief for caregivers with needed supervision of participants. Assists with some IADLs but no ADLs (i.e., no hands-on care). Note: Self-direction is available for individuals but not for agency-provided companions.
Defining Self-Direction

- The participant knows his/her needs better than anyone else
- Attendants and companions are accountable to the participant and/or the participant’s representative
- Self-direction gives the participant freedom to plan his/her own life
- Key components: Choice, Control, and Empowerment

Federal and State Requirements

- States can provide self-directed care under the State Plan and under home and community based services (HCBS) waivers
- The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) requires:
  - Person-centered planning
  - Service Plan for each individual
  - Individualized budget
  - Provision of information and assistance in support of self-direction
  - Support broker/consultant/manager to serve as a liaison between the individual and program
  - Financial Management Services (FMS)
  - Quality assurance and improvement strategies
- SCDHHS sets forth its policies and procedures within these federal guidelines and within the framework of its approved Medicaid waivers. SCDHHS leverages the waiver authority.
- The structure of SCDHHS’ program will be detailed in this presentation.
Practicing Person-Centered Planning

The backbone of self-direction is person-centered planning.

Key considerations for person-center planning:

- What is important to the person?
- On-going listening, learning, and reacting to discussion
- Influence of program staff is very limited
- Creative problem-solving
- Significant reliance on participant input
- Facilitating not managing
- Personalized to each participant
- Conveys to participant the consequences of responsibility and decisions
- Seeks to develop a shared understanding of the person and his/her situation

Note: This video is not tailored to South Carolina’s program and is for illustrative purposes only. However, it gives a flavor of how self-direction is generally administered in the United States. Each state has specific regulations and policies that govern their respective programs. We will cover the South Carolina program in the following slides.

Discussion
• What are some strengths and weaknesses of social worker’s approach?
• What was person-centered about the care coordinator interaction?
• What could be improved to make it more person-centered?

Self-Direction in South Carolina

- Learning how to manage their attendant/companion
- Communicating their needs to the attendant/companion
- Communicating about the quality and appropriateness of services received

- Voluntary – may be changed or removed as necessary
- Must reside within a 50-mile radius of the participant’s home or have an approved exemption

Attendant and Companion Care is closely related to Personal Care, but Personal Care Attendants are not available for self-direction.

</tbody>
</table>

Functions depicted as currently envisioned for the full implementation of MMP claims processing.
• Services are rendered in one hour increments up to a threshold in the participant’s service plan

• Attendant records time using Care Call system (via phone or mobile app) every time he/she provides care to the participant

• Payments are transmitted biweekly
  – MMIS or MMP releases payment to PPL
  – PPL releases payment to attendant and withholds taxes

• Impact of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA)
  – Required to track and pay overtime and travel time
  – If attendant provides care to several participants and the attendant’s total hours are greater than 40 hours in a week, SCDHHS is responsible for the overtime
MMP relationships with CDR & PPL

- SCDHHS maintains the relationship with both CDR (UAP) & PPL
- SCDHHS pays for the administrative services of both CDR & PPL
- NO additional contract is required between CDR and the MMPs. MMPs, along with waiver case managers, may refer members to CDR
- A “Service Level Agreement” between PPL and each MMP will be required, if MMPs fully implement HCBS claim processing, in order to exchange the provider reimbursement payments.
Electronic Visit Verification (EVV)

• 21st Century Cures Act requires all states to use EVV for verification of personal care service by January 1, 2019 or forfeit a portion of the federal match rate.

• In South Carolina, the EVV is Care Call (tracks attendant/companion hours worked and locations). South Carolina was the first state to roll out EVV in 2003.
The Federal Office of the Inspector General cited the following vulnerabilities in a recent report:

- Services not provided in compliance with state requirements
- Services not supported by documentation
- Services provided during periods when the participant was in a Medicaid-reimbursed institution and ongoing payments to the attendant were not authorized
- Services provided by attendants who do not meet state qualification requirements
- Billing for services not rendered
- Services furnished to ineligible beneficiaries or by unauthorized caregivers

<tr>

</tbody>
</table>
| Documentation of Claims                          | • Utilization of Care Call system required by all attendants/companions
• Daily Attendant Log |
| Prepayment Edits                                 | • Each attendant’s claim is compared against the member’s authorization for services. If the units of service are not authorized, no claim is submitted for payment. If the claim is for more units than authorized, the claim is reduced to only include authorized time |
| Post Payment Review                              | • CLTC case managers review claims on a monthly basis: is the claim documented from the authorized land-line phone number or geo-coded location? Are there any anomalies in the patterns of behavior or time distribution of work? Are member-specific needs addressed on the task sheet completed by the attendant? |
Challenges of Self-Direction

• Family members want greater authorized hours with increased compensation
• Case Managers view their self-direction responsibilities as more labor intensive
• Implications for the State related to Workman’s Compensation or unemployment claims
• Personal Care Aides may decide to leave agency employment and become an attendant, potentially resulting in issues
• The State does not have a formal licensure or regulation process for attendants

Self-Direction of Home- and Community-Based Services: A Training Curriculum for Case Managers

The ability to direct and manage their own services and supports is important to many individuals who need the home- and community-based services (HCBS) provided through state Medicaid programs. These self-directed models may also be known as "consumer direction" and "participant direction" when referring to specific states' programs. In these models, individuals direct many or all of their own HCBS, including selecting and managing direct service workers and/or managing a budget (known in some states as a service cost maximum) for needed services. Self-direction allows individuals to determine what mix of personal care services and supports works best for them within the parameters of their person-centered service plan.

As a service delivery model, self-direction has long been part of states' Medicaid fee-for-service programs and has resulted in improved quality and satisfaction with care. Now many states implementing Medicaid managed long-term services and supports (MLTSS) or other managed integrated care programs that provide HCBS are incorporating self-direction into these arrangements.
